ADMINISTRATION

Twenty-six years ago Mr. Harry W. Jones came to Piedmont High School, which was then a small institution of some two hundred students housed in shacks and tents. During the period of time that he has been associated with the schools of Piedmont as superintendent and as principal of the high school, he has been a constructive leader and organizer, having completed an ambitious building program for the senior and junior high schools and for the three elementary schools. A true friend of the young people, and one with enthusiasm for youth and its problems, he has always been interested in establishing high ideals. Scholastic standards, student government, honor societies, school publications, awards for achievements, cultural attainments in art, music, and drama—these are only a few of the activities which, as principal of the high school, he has fostered. As a friend of the students he will always have the gratitude of every loyal supporter of the Clan.

To Mr. Jones, as he retires after his long association with the Piedmont schools, his friends express appreciation and good wishes.

THEODORE L. BYSTROM, A. B.; M. A.
Principal

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

This Clan-O-Log, like those that have preceded it, tells the story in word and picture of school life here at Piedmont. It cannot tell the whole story, of course, but it will serve as a reminder in years to come of pleasant years spent with friends in the pursuit of a wide range of activities.

Many things which now seem unimportant will gain added significance over the years, and other things now seemingly so important will come to be looked upon as having little merit when judged from a distance in time. Yet, with it all, the Clan-O-Log remains as one of the most important means by which the aims, the activities, the accomplishments of Piedmont High School students are preserved.

In order to produce this book a relatively small group of students, under the wise and able leadership of Miss Martha G. Lane, have devoted a great deal of their time and effort. That their efforts have been successful is attested by the quality of the book. It is a fitting tribute, in itself, to the high abilities of its producers.

FOREWORD

With a minimum of words and a maximum of pictures we have attempted to portray on these pages the story of life at Piedmont High in all its phases. May this yearbook serve in years to come as a link to former classmates and a means of recalling activities, friends, and faculty.

Planned and printed during the time when the world was officially at peace, the twenty-fifth volume of the Clan-O-Log has come out in times that have been anything but peaceful. Problems are world-wide and finally came right to our small world here at Piedmont High School, where, among other things, the Clan-O-Log Staff has had to grapple with the effects of war and the transition to peace.

We of the staff of 1947 feel that much credit should go to those editors during the war who maintained the standards of the Clan-O-Log, while some schools abandoned their yearbooks entirely. This year, although we also have been affected by some of the same shortages and by the high prices, we have also had opportunities to return to features typical of the pre-war Clan-O-Log. One of those features of which we are proud is the cover of heavy material to replace the breakable plastic bindings; and the size of the book has been increased slightly. Much praise and many thanks should be given to Miss Lane, whose hard work and skillful guidance as advisor have been the leading factors in the production of this book.

In presenting any book which is a review of the year's activities, we cannot help glancing into the past. In 1920 we see Mr. William John Cooper, founder and first principal of Piedmont High, opening the doors of the old Piedmont casino to a hopeful freshman class. One memorable day Mr. Cooper presided at the dedication services of the new building which is now our Piedmont High School; and thus he saw the fulfillment of a long-cherished dream. Here is the nucleus upon which Mr. Harry W. Jones built when he came as principal in its first year under Mr. Lane's capable guidance. In a tradition of interest around a South theme have been growing up and Piedmont High School has herself been growing into a position of prominence. As Cansmen are justly proud of our motto, "Achieve the Honorable," of the honor organizations, the many trophies won for athletic achievement, the Highlander, the Kittie band, and the Can C Log itself; and we thank Mr. Lane for helping us develop these and other years of our life as Cansmen.

To guide us in carrying on these treasured traditions and to help us in developing new ones, we welcome to Piedmont High School to start out with us on our twenty seventh year, our new principal Mr. Theodore L. Bystrom. We extend our sincerest thanks to him for his friendliness and interest, his co-operation and influence during his first year with us.

Although we have not formally dedicated this yearbook, we have used as a symbol the hourglass which has been portrayed on the first page. With the turning of the hourglass we see our past slipping away as the future comes and grows before us with each hour. We have had this year at Piedmont High and have done our best to build constructively. May the coming classes and generation keep on building and raise our school to new heights of fame.

REVIEW OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON

Coaches "Brick" Johnson and Jim Hole were together again last season to turn out another championship football team. The Clansmen started off right by winning their two practice games and then going on to overcome Alameda and Richmond. The "Big Game" with Berkeley was next, and Piedmont, suffering several injuries in the starting line-up, was able to come out with a scoreless tie. From then on it was easy going for the Piedmont players, for they won from Alameda, El Cerrito, and Hayward, and finished on top of the League with the A. C. A. L. Championship.

After League competition was over, Piedmont played in the newly instituted Football Carnival, which brings together the top teams of the O. A. L. and the A. C. A. L. The Highlanders defeated San Leandro 7-0 to help the A. C. A. L. come through with a 13-0 victory.

REVIEW OF THE BASKETBALL SEASON

Hampered by a mid-season change of coaches, because of the loss of Coach Engelhard to the University of California Piedmont, sporting a spirited basketball team, entered league play with a record of one victory during the practice season.

The Highlanders were trailing the league at the change of Semesters. Though Piedmont had a much improved team, we ended the season with a tie for last place with El Cerrito.
